Kentuckians who embarked in the Nicaraguan Expedition, under Col. Jack Allen, in 1856, was Mat. Lytle, of this city. He fought gallantly at the battle of Masaya, but subsequently, with a mall body of men, was cut off by the enemy and killed, as was long supposed. He was seen o fall from his horse in the fight, and his companions not hearing of him afterwards during their sojourn in that inhospitable country, nourned him dead. The few of those who survive that ill-fated expedition will be glad to know that he is not dead but liveth, and is now in this city, after wandering for years in foreign lands. He made his escape from the enemy, and subsequently served on an American ship which was stationed on the Pacific coast.

THE WEATHER.-Yesterday was another ex remely warm day, the thermometer in the hade ranging from 91 to 95, from one till five 'clock in the evening. There was a gentle reeze prevailing at times which temperized the nosphere, and early last night there were some slight indications of a storm, but it cleared off.

For the Louisville Couries Douglasism in Kentucky It seems evident from the reckless and disor ganizing course of the Louisville Democrat, and the squad of its disaffected followers in this State, that the true Democracy. the supporters of BRECKINRIDGE and LANE, are to peace, but war to the bitter end. The editors of the Democrat can at least claim some consistence in this course, as for the past two or three years they have been in opposition to the Democracy of the State, and have time and again failed to receive an indorsement of their heretical doc trines; and yet, now, for sooth, that an irrespon sible disorganizing set of Squatter Sovereignty Douglasites have trampled the usages of the party and the rights of the people under their fee at Baltimore, they demand that the Democracy of Kentucky shall stultify themselves and ignore the principles upon which they have always stood in opposition to the nefarious doctrines of Douglasism. Finding that the Democracy of the State cannot be duped into the recognition of so loathsome a deceit, they have brought to bear all the powers of vituperation, of misrepresentation, and of ridicule, to slander the honest, to falsify the true, and to mislead the weak. Having hopefully labored to proselytize true Demo-crats, and conscious of the weakness of their cause, they have assumed the attitude of the bully; and alternately boast of what they do not ossess, and threaten perfidy as a balm to hear their wounded pride. Like the subordinate of a ship at sea, who, aspiring to the com mand of the vessel, has stationed himself torch in hand, by the magazine and demands the absolute control or the immediate destruction of all on board, so have they, with a mere handful of men, without power or influence in the party, assumed the reckless attitude of men emanding subserviency to Douglas or immediate defeat. The position which the followers of Douglas have assumed in this State is one of arrogant assumption, and of bold, reckless, and threatening defiance. Organized, drilled, and thoroughly consolidated in interest, the nucleus of the resent party has existed in this State since the period of Douglas' defection in 1857. Separated from the bulk of the party, and entirely devoid of its sympathy, as regards the peculiar point of difference, it has been driven by the mere force of self-existence to co-operate in the ranks of the Democracy, until now, having, by appeals to the disappointed, by threats to the weak, and by promises to the unscrupulous, gathered a squad of camp followers, it raises the banner of disorganization and defies the authority of the party in Kentucky, ignores its usages, and openly strives to compass its defeat. By an outward show of fealty to the party, they have insinuated themselves into its confidence ave circulated their journal among unsuspect ing men of honor, and by a shameless suppres on of facts in the history of the recent Cor entions, have misled many who have trusted the honor of their position for a truthful rec ord of the facts. But instead of exposing the raudulent trickery of the managers of DougLas, y which, at Charleston, the swindling unit rule was foisted upon the Convention, instead of informing them that by their nefarious action at Baltimore, whole Southern States were disfranchised and bogus del egations admitted without the shadow authority, and have misled many into the belief that the strict usage of party was observed in the system of balloting, and that truth and justice triumphed when Alabama, Arkan-sas, and the other Southern States were insulted by ignoring the action of their State Conven-tions, and admitting the stock-jobbing delegates who swelled the lists of Douglas ballots. They have deceived many true and honest men, by alsely stating that Douglas received a two thirds vote in Convention, when the truth of tinguished politician in Tennessee, who knows Mr. B. intimately, in a private letter, which we take the liberty of making an extract from, I observe from the Kentucky papers, that the death of Mr. Revill makes it the duty of the people of Kentucky to elect his successor as clerk of the Court of Appeals in August next. I also observe the name of an old and valued Democratic friend mentioned in that connection by papers in Southern Kentucky—I allude to George C. Bronaugh, the present Clerk of the Circuit Court of Hopkins county, and editor of the Southern Kentucky Register, at Madisonville. I have known Mr. Bronaugh intimately for many years, and have been familiar with his efficient labors as a Democratic editor in that end of the State. During the years of 1846, '47, '48, and '49, as editor of the Press at Hopkinsville, he performed more valuable and effective service for the Democratic party than any man in that portion of the State, as will be attested by all the old and leading Democrats, familiar with the politics of that day. He is a Democrat of the old Virginia-Kentucky-State-right-Breck-inridge-and-Lane school—a genial, liberal gentleman, a true friend, and a man of fine talent, that may be made very useful to the party. I take the liberty of saying these things of him, supposing that he may not be personally known to the editors of the Courler.

Mr. Bronaugh is a brother-in-law of Hen. Sanuel O Pexton, and has as many devoted thus speaks of him: history shows that instead of two hundred and eleven votes, the highest number given was one hundred and ninety-four and a half, and only then by counting the illegal representatives of the Southern States above named. Celebration of the Fourth of July in Adair County, Ky.

On the bank of a beautiful stream near Columbia, and on the above day, music burst forth with its voluptuous sounds to lend joy and gladness to the assembled throng of ladies who had collected for the purpose of presenting, by the hands of Miss M. A. P. H. Saunders, a beautiful flag to a noble looking company of young men called the "Adair Guards." The ceremony was opened by the Rev. Jno. L. McKee with a few excellent gentemen, and a sound and reliable Democrat. The Paducah Herald thus strongly presses his claims:

We to-day announce Mr. P. M. Ellison, of Calloway county, as a candidate for Clerk of the Court of Appeals. Mr. Ellison is one of the very best clerks in the State, and one of the most intelligent and excellent gentlemen. If the nomination is given to him, he will poll 1,000 more votes than any other man in the State can poll in the First District, and will, if elected, make an officer of whom the party, from the manner in which he will execute the duties of his office, and from his bearing as a gentleman, may always feel proud.

We present him on the part of the Democracy of Calloway, the Gibraltar of the First District, and ask our Democratic friends in the central and northern part of the State to give his claims that degree of regard which we think the First District has a right to expect. Most earnestly do we ask this from the Louisville Courier, Maysville Express, and other papers in upper Kentucky. The First District gave Rankin R. Revill and Jas. H. Garrard an ardentand united vote. And notwithstanding their disappointment in not receiving the nomination for Governor for their distinguished son, still the Democracy of the First District gave to Gov. Magotfin and the whole State ticket a united vote and a splendid majority.

Not one of these candidates was from the First District, and it has no representative at Frankfort. Is the district asking too much, then, when it urges that the Clerkship of the Court of Appeals ought to be conferred upon one of its best, truest, and noblest sons? The Second District has a United States Senator, a Judge of the Court of Appeals, and the Auditor of the State. The Third has the President of the Board of Internal Improvements and a Judge of the Court of Appeals, the First has the President of the Board of Internal Improvements and a Judge of the Court of Appeals, and the Auditor of the State Senator, Secretary of State, Assistant Auditor, Librarian, Adjutant Gene GENTLEMEN OF THE ADAIR GUARDS: I have had the honor of being selected by the ladies of Columbia to present (on their behalf) this banner—The Flag of OUR UNION—to you and your ner—THE FLAG OF OUR UNION—to you and your gallant comrades, and preface the same with a short address to you. Unaccustomed, as you all are aware I am, to public speaking, and the inadequacy of my pow-ers to express the feelings and sentiments of my fair companions towards you, I trust you will not scan me with a critic's eye, but treasure up the will for the deed. ers to express the feelings and sentiments of my fair companions towards you, I trust you will not sean me with a critic's eye, but treasure up the will for the deed.

This day is the day of days, a day that should be celebrated in every inhabited spot of these United States. A day ever to be commemorated in the annals of our history and the history of the world, the day on which our forefathers promulgated freedom to mankind, which gave new thoughts, new vigor to the mind, and regeneration to man; it is the birthday of liberty, and a very appropriate one for this occasion; for liberty has progressed, is now progressing, and will, I hope, progress throughout the whole universe to the end of time. Our forefathers fought, bled, and died for liberty, and the consumnation of their hopes, wishes, and victories has made us the proudest, happiest, and most independent nation on the face of the globe.

Mexico and the States of the South American Continent, stimulated by our example, after a severe and arduous struggle, threw off the iron yoke of their European despots, and most of them are now basking in the sunshine of prosperity. But poor down-trodden Italy, with its farrenowned azure sky and delightfully cultivated hills and vales, is now struggling under the patriot Garibaldi for this glorious freedom which we enjoy, and may God, by his overruling providence, (as was the case with us), prosper her enterprise, and all other States that are oppressed.

Gentlemen and friends, let me say to you that we have this day, and on other occasions, noticed with much pleasure your gallant bearing, martial display, orderly evolutions, and fine soldierlike appearance, which makes us feel proud that "if the blast of war blows in our ears" we have within our midst an efficient, well officered, and good disciplined corps of stout hearts and willing hands to protect us from the ruthless hordes of savage warfare.

We are fully aware that, from the known and tried courage of many of you and all of you, as Kentuckians, that it is needle justice, fairness, and sense of comity on the part of the balance of the State, to say whether the old Democratic First is not entitled to the posi-tion of Clerk of the Court of Appeals. Post of Saturday, says :

Among the arrivals by the Persia to-day, we observe the name of Miss Charlotte Cushman. After visiting her friends in the Atlantic States she will probably take a trip to California. Efforts will doubtless be made to induce her, during her stay in this metropolis, to give her numerous friends and admirers an opportunity of seeing her once more upon the stage, but in this hope we fear they will be disappointed. She has simply come home to visit old friends, and to discharge such duties as her large and enlarging capacities for usefulness have seemed to impose on her.

She was accompanied by Miss Stebbins, of this city, who has been for several seasons at Rome perfecting herself as a sculptor, and who has given evidence of very superior gifts as an artist.

OUR CORRESPONDENCE.

The Democracy Speaking Out. One of the ablest and most influential of the Representatives from Kentucky to the Congress of the United States, having returned home, and gone through the greater portion of his district, writes us as follows : Breckinridge and Lane will receive the largest vote in my district ever given to any Presidential ticket. Donglas has not two hundred friends in the district, and for every vote he may receive, we will get two from the Opposition. A gentleman of Covington writes as follows of the Douglas meeting in that city: of the Douglas meeting in that city:

The Sunday's Enquirer fills a column with the proceedings of a Douglas ratification meeting held here on Saturday night—and from it one would suppose that the enthusiasm here for that erratic individual is intense. This, however, is not the case. No Democrats of any prominence, except Robert Richardson, State Superintendent of Common Schools, supports him. He will get a fair vote in this city, but more than half of his supporters have never before acted with the Democratic party. Col. T. L. Jones, Opposition candidate for Congress two years ago, was one of the speakers. Col. Porter, the President of the meeting, never cast a Democratic vote in his life. S. T. Wall, one of the Committee on Resolutions, was Opposition candidate for Prosecuting Attorney of this city last winter. Indeed, to a person well acquainted here, a mere glance at the audience present, would be sufficient to show that a majority have heretofore been members of the Opposition party—and not contribute to the term were filter. Strike, for the green graves of your sires, God and your native land."

Or should the barbarous, half civilized hordes of Mexico have the temerity to molest our commerce or insult our citizens, your response to metre them out a merited chastisement would be performed with alacrity and a free-hearted good will; or should that dire calamity, servile war, (brought about by the bigoted fanatics of the North, and which now threatens us in the distance,) befall this our happy land, which God in his infinite wisdom forefend—should that "irrepressible conflict" pervade this fair garden of the South, or any of our Southern sister States, with all its inexpressible horrors and concomitant evils, that usually attend such wars—we, the mothers, wives and daughters, feel a full reliance upon your honor, integrity, nobleness and would be sufficient to show that a majority have heretofore been members of the Opposition party—and not only that, but many of them will vote for Bell, and only attend Douglas meetings to magnify the strength of that faction. Many of the Opposition, however, are sincere in supporting him. They have always been with the minority, and their accession to the Douglas bolters is really ominous. nce upon your honor, integrity, nobleness and te of country that you will strive to protect us love of country that you will strive to protect us in our persons, property, and all our Southern rights to the last; and may our Union ever be preserved by the support and defense of its growing generation;—may they ever remember that they are friends to liberty, and ever act as men who claim that glorious title.

I suppose this is the strongest Douglas hole in Indiana. The Douglasites here are led by M. W. Harrington, who wanted the Congressional nomination, but couldn't "come in." Still there are many here who have not bowed the knee to Baal; and who will vote for the national candidates BRECKINRIDGE and LAKE. We will give them our hearty support; and many of us are confident that Indiana will give them her electoral vote. The canvass will open here pretty soon. I understand Senator Bright and some of the ablest men in the Union will stump our State. Daily, our candidate for Congress, is a talented man; and before he gets through with W. Springfield, Ky., July 9, 1860.

Editors Louisville Courier: The Democracy of Washington county met at Springfield on Saturday to select delegates to the Convention of July 18th, and also to express their sentiments as to the nominations for President and Vice President. In the absence of the committee appointed to draft resolutions, Dr. Palmer who run mad some time since about Douglas, mounted his favorite hobby and held on to it for more than an hour. He was replied to by Robt. Hardin, Esq., who in an able and concise argument refuted the absurd propositions of the champion of the Douglasites, to the delight of the friends of the "Constitutional Democracy" who to a man support Breckinridge and Lane. He so completely used up the Doctor, that the few Douglasites present got almost lighting mad, and most of them withdrew. They could'nt stand the hot shot from Hardin's political bai-SPRINGFIELD, KY., July 9, 1860.

In the meantime the committee reported a series of resolutions, the main one, as you will perceive by the report of the proceedings, indorsing the gallant leaders of the Democracy, BRECKINRIDGE and LANE. I will say in conclusion, that Old Washington will stand firm by Breckinridge and Lane. Some few of the Democrats and Old-Line Whigs were inclined to support Douglas before the Convention; but they have been disgusted by the efforts of his corrupt fuglomen and camp-followers, to "rule or ruin" our noble old party, and they therefore desert him. When such men as Bob Hardin, Judge Thurman, Dr. Polin, Hon. T. R. Grundy, Richard Hamilton, Esq., Wm. Pope, and many others I could name, go for Breckinridge, the influence must be salutary. The resolutions reflect the correct sentiment of Washington county, which you can put down by a rousing majority for Kentucky's noble son, John C. Breckinridge.

LA BELLE ADAMS-A FALLEN ANGEL.-All of the old play goers of Cincinnati and Louisville will remember a young and beautiful actress, upon whom the soubriquet of "Belle Adams" was bestowed, and who was a great favorite with the patrons of the drama in this city. Her husband, "Charley Adams," was also a favorite, and there were few at the time in the profession, within the grade of stock performers, whose professional career was more promising than left Cincinnati and acquired engagements in the East, but an unfortunate passion for drink, in which they mutually indulged, clouded their future. They separated, and shortly afterward the curtain dropped upon the existence of poor name of the beautiful, shone for a brief space in ever; but it was a mere flash-she lacked the determination to withstand the alcoholic demon who had first allured her to destruction, and the next we heard of her was through the New York police reports. She had wandered back to the scene of her early triumph, but oh, how altered! The present is a time of great peril to all politicians who hope for a future. They are now compelled, by the force of events, to choose their own destiny. It is a difficult and truly hazardous situation in which they are placed by hazardous situation in which they are placed by

If they chose the true course, a brilliant future is in prospect. If they commit an error, it will be fatal, and they will fall to rise no more. Sectionalism, now for the first time dressed up in the garb of Democracy, appeals to them with its local and personal sympathies and prejudices, most powerfully to lead them astray. On the other hand, patriotism, duty, true Democracy, call upon them to stand boldly, bravely, and fearlessly, by the flag of their whole country. That appeal comes athwart the sympathies and prejudices of localities and attachment to persons; calls upon them to look beyond the exigencies of the present hour; and demands of them fealty, not to a State, nor section, but to the whole Union. Resolved, That in our fellow-citizen and countryman, Thomas G. TWBNTY DOLLARS OFFERED FOR A TICKET.

Twelve o'clock was the hour fixed for the admission of those who were fortunate enough to possess tickets. There were but 150 tickets issued, and much fault was found with the sheriff for the manner in which he managed their distribution, and for not having the execution in front of the Court-house, so that all who desired might have an opportunity of witnessing it. So great was the curiosity to winess the execution that any amount of money would have been willingly paid for admission. Our reporter heard one man publicly declare, in front of the Court-house, that he would give twenty dollars for a ticket, and was unable to obtain one, notwithstanding there were scores of persons about him possessed of them. Any number might have readily been disposed of, at prices ranging from five so fifteen dollars.

At length the doors were thrown open and our reporter passed through to the yard. The yard is not more than forty feet square, and is surrounded by a brick wall about twelve feet high. The scaffold—which was the ordinary "drop"—was creeted in the northwest corner of the yard, and had a drop of three feet eight inches.

GOING TO THE SCAFFOLD.

GOING TO THE SCAFFOLD.

At twenty-five minutes past one o'clock, the prisoner, with his hands made firmly fast, in the ordinary way, above the elbows, quitted his cell forever, and walked deliberately and with a firm step to the gallows, which he mounted without any assistance whatever. He was preceded by the sheriff, and followed by the clergy and doctors. Upon reaching the scaffold, he knelt down in prayer for a few moments.

He spoke in an indistinct tone, his voice being very tremulous and husky, clearly showing that, however calm he appeared to the observer, there was an agitation within of more than ordinary character. The only words we were able to catch were: "0h! God, have mercy upon me, a sinner!" "Oh! Jesus, support me in this fearful hour of trial."

THE EXECUTION.

After rising from his knees, he bade his friends farewell, stepped upon the fatal drop, and stood without nowings a nuncle while the sheriff was ing.

After the adoption of these resolutions the meeting with one accord called for Col. E. I. Bullock, who responded in a logical and patriotic speech, pointing out the way and means of certain success to our party by rallying to the standard of Breckinridge and Lane.

Col. Silvertooth then offered the following, which was adopted: which was adopted:

The preliminaries settled, the sheriff placed a white handkerchief in Harden's right hand, which he was to let fall when ready. On motion a committee consisting of Judge Rateliffe, W. G. Bullitt, Marion Cully, George Rateliffe, W. G. Bullitt, Marion Cully, George Rateliffe, Dr. Watson, Todd Hobbs, and John C. Noble, was appointed to draft resolutions expressive of the sense of the meeting.

After the Committee retired, Col. George W. Silvertooth, of Hickman county, was loudly called for, when he appeared and addressed the meeting in a speech replete with stirring eloquence, sound argument, and Democratic truth, which elicited the most enthusiastic applause.

At the conclusion of Col. Silvertooth's speech, Judge Rateliffe, the Chairman of the Committee, read the following resolutions, which met the enthusiastic approval of every true Democrat present: enthusiastic approval of every true Democrat present:

string cut which let down the trap, a screeching noise was heard from the hinge, and Jacob S. Harden was launched into eternity!

The unfortunate man struggled violently for about five minutes, drawing his limbs up to his body, working his fingers spasmodically, twisting his body, etc.

Every spot about the court house commanding a view of the scaffold was eagerly sought after. The roof of a large barn in the vicinity was covered with men, for the occupancy of which they paid the sum of fifty cents. Even the trees were turned, with true Yankee ingenuity, to some account by their owners. It was a novel sight to behold the branches of several trees filled with men and boys, and rather amusing to see with what eagerness each paid his twenty-five cents for this privilege.

A few minutes before the prisoner issued from his cell, a limb of a large cherry tree, covered with men, gave way with a terrible crash, by which many were injured. One man was injured so severely internally as to be unable to move or speak.

Harden was neatly dressed; wore a blue cloth frock coat, with yelvet collar, black cloth pantaloons, black slik plush vest, light linen neck-tie cross-plaited shirt, and patent-leather shoes. His hair was carefully combed and brushed back. He was about five feet eight or nine inches in height, with a frame indicative of great bodily strength, and would weigh about one hundred and fifty or one hundred and sixty pounds. It was the impression of the physicians, from the partial examinations which they made, that the neck was not dislocated by the fall.

Ambrotypes of Harden, badly executed, and pasted on a small card, about the size and shape of a visiting or business card, were sold in and about the jail for fifteen cents a piece.

DRUNK AND DISORDERLY.—Barney McCarnell was presented before the court, charged with being drunk and disorderly. Bail in $100 for two months. First Gun.—The very decided victory of Alexander Barrow in the contest for the Senatorfal Representative of the District, composed of the parishes of West Baton Rouge, Pointe Conpee, and West Feliciana, over a popular opponent, who united in his support all the Opposition, is the first response that has thus far been given in this State to the call of Ex-Governor Wickliffe for that 40,000 majority for Douglas, which he promised his brother Squatter Sovereigns in Baltimore. The best of the joke is that one of these parishes is that in which the Ex-Governor resides, and where, too, Colonel Barrow's opponent lives, and is greatly esteemed as a gentleman. There were no local issues, and the contest turned entirely on the questions of political controversy which have arisen out of the proceedings of the Conventions at Baltimore; Colonel Barrow sturdily maintained the propriety of the seceders, and Mr. Courtney having the support of the whole Douglas party. This result is precisely what will occur in every one of the forty-nine parishes in the State in the general election in November.

being drunk and disorderly. Bail in $100 for two months.

DRUNK.—Morgan Smith was very drunk and disorderly. He is in the habit of drinking too much bad whisky and making a great noise.—Bail in $100 for two months.

Assault.—Peter Robinachner was before the court on the charge of making an assault on Augustus Whitman and a Ed. Barton, two small boys, and one of them had but one leg. Petershad got hold of too much rifle whisky, which put him in a fighting humor, and he commenced on the first person he could find. The boys said that they had done nothing. Other witnesses testified that the boys had been abusing the old man when he went to the pump. Peter was discharged.

No Democracy in the world have been more loyal to their principles than have those who bear that name in Kentucky. Through evil as well as through good report, through years o defeat and disaster, the Democrats of this State have stood firmly for "principles, not men." They have had leaders, loved and idolized; and when their leaders have gone astray, they have parted hesitatingly. They have clung to the creed of their fathers, and battling for the Constitution, strictly construed, and the equal rights of the States, they at last triumphed over their adversaries. As they have done, they will continue to do; and though defeat consign them to the shades from which they have just emerged, they will adhere to principles, regardless of men as

The questions now agitating the country, and dividing parties, and endangering the existence of the Democracy, have been the subject of consideration and discussion for sometime .-The issues presented were important and serious. They have been deliberated upon with the solemnity due their na-ture and the consequences likely to flow from them. The Democracy of Kentucky, with too much intelligence not to see the coming storm, and too much courage and patriotism, to postpone preparation for it, at an early day undertook the investigation of the Douglas dogma of Squatter Sovereignty; and, after mature consideration, they repudiated it, deliberately and formally, as a heresy, having no place in the Democratic creed, and being in conflict with the reserved rights of the States and of the citizens of the States. And, with equal sagacity and determination, they resolved that the powers conferred upon the Federal Government were for the protection of the life, liberty, and property of the citizen; and that all these powers must be exerted, when necessary, for the protection of the persons and property of the in-habitants of the Territories belonging to the

Such was the position taken by the Democra cy of this State long before the assembling of the last National Convention; and this stand was assumed after such deliberation, and under such circumstances, that to retreat from it, for the sake of political success, would be to incur the just charge of abandoning principles, of giving up honest convictions, of stultifying the recent record of the party, and all for the spoils.

The support of Mr. Douglas by the Demo of Kentucky who favored the platform laid down at Frankfort last winter, would be a repudiation of their action then, a repudiation of position of their party, and an ind errors of grave and serious import. Thank God! it is only here and there a Democrat can be found, within the limits of this State, who is not RIDGE and LANE, fighting for the principles to

But the success of the Democracy in this Comaltogether unproductive of ill consequences. Men who had no principles were attracted to its ranks by the hope of reward; and those who had done good service in the days of trial and adversity, could not bear the sunshine of presperity, and fell by the wayside. Such men were impelled, quite as many by secret hopes of ultimate preferment or from disappointed ambition as from honest but erron convictions, to encourage errors and to foment discords in our ranks. They refused to go with the party and with the South; and when Doug-Las raised the flag of rebellion, in these men he found his earliest supporters and most persistent advocates. And when a faction, the representatives of non-Democratic constituencies, broke up the national organization of the party and put forward the Squatter Chieftain as their candidate for the Presidency, in violation of the usages of the party and of the rights of the Democratic people, they are the first again to seize upon the pretext thus given to abandon their party and fight against its candidates and for the didates of the Opposition. We have referred time and again to the action of these factionists in this State. To what we have heretofore said on this subject, we call attention, as being corroborative and confirmatory, to the following paragraph from the leading guns. Without FOOTE, it would have been no Douglas organ in the State. The Convention which nominated Mr. PETERS was regularly called and duly authorized. It met in accorance with the usages and the custom of the State Convention that nominated the last Oppoparty. If the nomination of its candidates are party for years has been entitled to the support Douglasites are not to be thwarted by the organization of the party nor the good of the public.

And having announced their intention to oppose the nominee of the Frankfort Convention on the 18th inst., and intimated strongly and emphatically a preference for Bell over Breckin-RIDGE, the friends of Squatter Sovereignty are called upon to defeat Mr. Peters, agood lawyer, an honest man, a capable judge, because he is the regular nominee of the Democratic party! How many Democrats in Kentucky will sanction

The Louisville Democrat of yesterday says: A Convention at Irvine, Estill county, nominated Belvard J. Peters for Appellate Judge. We are informed that the Convention was a Breckinridge, not a Democratic one; and, therefore, no Democrat is bound by such a nomination. Our opinion is, if ought to be beaten. Bolters from the Democratic ranks make the worst of parties.

Mr. Breckin idge Accepts.

In our telegraphic columns this morning will be found Mr. Breckingroge's letter accepting the nomination for President. To say it is worthy of the head and heart of the gifted statatesman whose fortune it is to represent the principles of his party, and to bear with him the fate of the country, in the pending struggle for the control of the Government, is but to anticipate the first thought of each true Democrat who reads.

Like the resolutions of the Democratic National Convention, explicit, frank, direct, and unequivocal, without casting reflections upon the conduct or impugning the motives of any, the acceptance of Mr. Breckinging is all his best and most discreet friends could wish—con-ceived in a proper spirit, written in the best temper, chaste and elegant in style, admirable

The Congress at Baden Baden. The Paris Moniteur of the latest date publish s the following:

The rapid journey which the Emperor has ist made will have, we doubt not, happy results, onlying less than such a spontaneous and significant step was required to put an end to the Nothing less than such a spontaneous and significant step was required to put an end to the ananimous concert of malevolent reports and significant step was required to put an end to the ananimous concert of malevolent reports and selected and the selected when the selected when the selected when the selected when the selected with the conviction which a true sentiment honestly expressed always conveys. Hence it was that there was more than courtesy in the reciprocal contact between the members of this august meeting. They spent nearly the whole Sunday in each other's company. At noon the Grand Duke of Baden invited them to a dejeuner at the old castle. At five o'clock they all dined together. After dinner, the Emperor having returned to his hotel, the majority of the soveriegns came to take their leave of them all at nine o'clock, at the house of the Princess Marie of Baden, Duchess of Hamilton, who asked them to tea. Thus, all who desire the reëstablishment of confidence and the continuance of good international relations, ought to congratulate themselves upon a conference which consolidates the peace of Europe.

peace of Europe.

The following is an exact list of the sovereigns and Princes who met at Baden Baden: The Prince Regent of Prussia, and the Princess of Prussia, the Grand Duke and Duchess of Baden, the King of Wurtemburg, the King of Bavaria, the King of Saxony, the King of Hanover, the Grand Duke of Hesse Darmstadt, the Grand Duke of Saxe Weimar, the Duke of Nassau; the Duke of Saxe Coburg, the Prince and Princess of Hohenzollern, the Princes Mary, Duchess of Hamilton, and the Prince and Princess of Furstemburg.

emburg, however, the French government press f the result of Napoleon's interview in the result of Napoleon's interview in While, however, the French government press speak of the result of Napoleon's interview in Baden as highly satisfactory, the Paris correspondent of the London Daily News says:

"I have cogent reasons for believing that it was an utteer failure—a fascoe. Now, it is certain that the Emperor's intention was to propose to the Prince Regent of Prussia a course of policy not merely new, but widely differing from that which he as a German sovereign has been hitherto following; and, it is, I believe equally true that the proposals, whatever they were, have been rejected. It was a painful surprise to Napoleon III to find that the Prince had surrounded himself by all the sovereigns of Germany, (the Emperor of Austria only excepted,) in testimony of his loyalty towards them. There is, therefore, reason to believe that the designs upon the Rhine are suspended sine die."

Whether this be correct or not there is certainly something mysterious about the Interview of Napoleon III with the Prince of Prussia. In the latest accounts we are told that he did not allude to the questions regarding the German policy or the Italian question. Was the object of his visit then simply to tell the Prince that he meant nothing but peace?

After the departure of Napoleon, however, the Prince Regent of Prussia, in an official reception of the minor German sovereigns, thanked them for meeting with him to receive the peaceful assurances of the French Emperor, and stated that the maintenance of the integrity of Germany would always be his especial care. Austria, he said, had taken steps of great importance, but he seemed to doubt whether that power would coincide in the views entertained by the Congress.

Gen. Bynum Come Again. Gen. Bynum Come Again.

HE CARES A YOUNG MAN FOR A FANCIED INSULT—ALMOST A DUPL.—The Atlanta Examiner gives a pleasing incident in the life of Gen. J.
G. Bynum, who created such a sensation here a few weeks ago by eloping with a young lady, a student in Springler Institute. Mr. Leals, editor of the Atlanta Intelligencer, was amusing the crowd by improvised verses, in one of which he was so unfortunate as to mention Gen. Bynum in connection with a young lady to whom he seemed to be particularly attentive. No sooner had he committed the blunder than a brother of the young lady managed to inform Mr. Leals that he had given great offense by his allusions.
Ample apology was at once made, but Gen. Bythat he had given great offense by his allusions. Ample apology was at once made, but Gen. Bynum was not satisfied with this. After dinner, while Mr. Leals was sitting on the piazza, the General made his appearance with a cane in one hand and a pistol in the other, and at once proceed-to administer to Mr. Leals a flagellation with the hickory. He struck him only three blows, but these were severe enough to confine Mr. Leals to his bed for two or three days. In a newspaper controversy which Mr. Leals, who is connected with the Atlanta Intelligencer, subsequently had with Mr. Hanleiter, of the Crusader, the latter taunted him with having received a cowhiding at a public watering-place. A perowhiding at a public watering-place. A per-ptory challenge was the result. The affair reminated with the following note, Mr. Leals ing justified, as he thinks, in terming Mr. mleiter "an impudent and cowardly scoun-el." ATLANTA, June 25, 1860.

ATLANTA, June 25, 1860.

J. H. LEALS—Sir: Your note of this date, inviting me ouside of the State, to continue the correspondence commenced between us on Saturday last, is received.

Your invitation to a hostile meeting is declined; and I refer you to my previous record as an evidence that I could not, under any circumstances, entertain the proposition. Besides, I feel that my family and creditors have each a lieu upon my life, and that I have no right, voluntarily, to jeopard it, to gratify the whims of those who entertain a different opinion.

Regarding, as I do, that my article, of which Regarding, as I do, that my article, of which you complain, is a legitimate rejoinder to your gratuitous attack upon me, I deny your right to demand personal satisfaction for it, while you remain the assailant.

Cars in the Desert. Mr. Russell, the well-known Crimean reporte of the London Times, gives a most interesting sketch of a run through a portion of the Arabian desert by the new railway route. We subjoin an desert by the new railway route. We subjoin an extract:

Blanched bones of camels lie in dull whiteness on the sands. Not a bird fans the hot, silent air. Stones and sand, and sand and stones, are all and everywhere stretched out dead and hard under the blue sky and the relentiess sun. The rail which conveys us through this desolation is single, and the line is said by English engineers to be very badly made, as the French engineers who laid it out, took it over a ridge one thousand and one hundred feet high, instead of following a low level near the river, which would have greatly diminished expense and cost of working. The water and coals for the engines are to be carried by the trains out to the various stations. So they are like comissiriat animals in a barren country, which have to carry their own fodder and diminish the public burthens.

The stations are helpless, hot, oven-like erections generally eked out by old Crimean wooden huts, within the shade of which may be seen an undoubted Englishman, smoking his pipe. At the twelfth station we coaled; the train ended in the desert here; but at long intervals for miles in advance, we could see the encampments of Arabs, who for the time had become natives, and, were engaged in picking, burrowing and blasting through the rocks a way for the iron horse. In a long wooden shed—the center of a group of tents—were laid out long tables covered with hot joints of recondite animals, papier mache chickens, and lignite vegetables.—This was our dinner—it had come all the way from Cairo—so had the wine, the beer, and spirits. If manna and qualis vere at all catable, we had envied the food of the Israelites. extract:

THE HANDSOMEST DRY GOODS STORE IN NEW YORK-WHO WERE THE PROPRIETORS?-A corespondent furnishes the Boston Post the follow

respondent furnishes the Boston Post the following interesting reminiscence:

The handsomest structure on Broadway, devoted to the retailing of dry goods, and controlled by one of our most progressive firms, furnishes so nice a point for a moral and such brilliant adornment for a tale, that I am tempted to tell a short story about the origin, of the firm who ownit. The originators of the house, now of thirty years' standing, were two members of the London police who were contentedly plodding in their respective beats until a boldand successful robbery of jewels, owned by a lady of noble lineage, and intrinsically of immense value, was one day announced, along with the tempting reward to whoever might be shrewd enough or lucky enough to find and restore them to the loser. The prospect of attaining comparative wealth prompted these heroes of my story to become partners in various plans by which they hoped to discover the burglar and his booty. After patient and persistent labors and many well laid traps, they succeeded in ferreting out the mystery, and gaining the promised recompense. The reward was liberal enough to justify their retiring from the "force" and emigrating to America. Here they formed a partnership, and commenced retailing dry goods. Their method of doing business was peculiar and progressive. The result of their harmonious and prudent action was the accumulation of great wealth. In fact so fortunate were they that one of the originators of the house retired some years since, taking with him, in cash, five hundred thousand dollars. Although not now composed of its orignal elements, the house has two or three branches in this city, and one in New Orleans. ng interesting reminiscence:

Another small steamer, belonging to Mr. Stephens, was crushed by the boats and sprung a leak, but was soon stopped, and the water pumped out. The wharf boat was checked up and made fast some distance below the city, while the Kentucky, which had cut loose from the wharf boat to keep from being sunk by colliding with the raft, was still floating down the river. New York, July 10.—The following letter from the Hon. Caleb Cushing, President of the Baltimore Convention, informing the Hon. John C. Breckinridge of his nomination for President of the United States, and the reply of the latter, accepting the nomination, were published this morning.

Democratic National Convention, Baltimore, Md., June 23, 1860.

Sir: I am directed by a vote of the Democratic National Convention to inform you that you have been this day unanimously nominated by it as the candidate of the Democratic party for the office of President of the United States, and in their behalf to request you to accept the nomination. I beg leave, at the same time, to enclose you a copy of the resolutions adopted by the Convention as their political platform on which the party stands. the party stands.

I have the honor to be,

Very respectfully, C. CUSHING, President. HON. J. C. BRECKINRIDGE.

C. CUSHING, President.

Washington City, July 6, 1860.

Dear Sir: I have your letter of the 28d, ultimo, by which I am officially informed of my nomination for the office of President of the United States by the Democratic National Convention lately assembled at Baltimore.

The circumstances of this nomination will justify me in referring to its personal aspect.

I have not sought nor desired to be placed before the country for the office of President. When my name was presented to the Convention at Charleston, it was withdrawn by a friend in obedience to my expressed wishes. My views had not changed when the Convention reassembled at Baltimore, and when I heard of the differences which occurred there, my indisposition to be connected prominently with the canvass was confirmed, and expressed to many friends. Without discussing the occurrences which preceded the nominations, and which are or so on will be well understood by the country, I have only to say that I approved, as just and necessary to the preservation of the national organization and the sacred right of representation, the action of the Convention over which you continued to preside; and, thus approving it, and having resolved to sustain it, I feel that it does not become me to select the position I shall occupy, nor to shrink from the responsibilities of the post to which I have been assigned. Accordingly, I accept the nomination from a sense of public duty, and, as I think, uninfluenced in any degree by the allurements of ambition.

I avail myself of this occasion to say that the confidence in my personal and public character, implied by the action of the Convention, will always be gratefully remembered; and it is but just also to my own feelings to express my gratification at the association of my name with that of my friend General Lane, a patriot and a soldier, whose great services in the field and in council entitle him to the gratitude and confidence of his countrymen.

The resolutions adopted by the Convention have my cordial approval. They are just to all parts of the Union—to all our citizens, native and naturalized—and they form a noble policy have my cordial approval. They are just to all parts of the Union—to all our citizens, native and naturalized—and they form a noble policy for any administration.

The question touching the rights of persons and property, which have of late been much discussed, find in these resolutions a Constitutional solution. Our Union is a confederacy of equal sovereign States, for the purpose enumerated in the Federal Constitution. Whatever the common government holds in trust for all the States, must be enjoyed equally by each. It controls the Territories in trust for all the States, Nothing less than sovereignty can destroy or impair the rights of persons or property. The Territorial governments are subordinate and temporary, and not sovereign; hence they cannot destroy or impair the rights of persons or property. While they continue to be Territories, they are under the control of Congress, but the Constitution nowhere confers on any branch of the Federal Government the power to discriminate against the rights of the States or the property of their citizens in the Territories. It follows that the citizens of all the States may enter the Territories of the Union with their property, of whatever kind, and enjoy it during the Territorial condition without let or hindrance, either by Congress or by the subordinate Territorial governments.

These principles flow directly from the absence of sovereignty in the Territorial governments and from the equality of the States. Indeed they are essential to that equality which is, and ever has been, the vital principle of our Constitutional Union. They will preserve the Constitutional Union—they will preserve the Union. It is idle to attempt to smother these great issues, or to misrepresent them by the use of partisan phrases, which are misleading and delusive. The people will look beneath such expressions as "Intervention," "Congressional slave code," and the like, and will penetrate to the real questions involved. The friends of Constitutional equality do not and never did demand a In the general markets, matters were very quiet to-day. o discover hosting to the Union of a taint of cetionalism in the resolutions adopted by the onvention. The Constitution and the Union pose on the equality of the States, which lies ke a broad foundation underneath our whole olitical structure. As I construe them, the resulting structure is the construction of the constructio lutions simply assert this equality. They deeerfully conceded to all the rest. It is well remember that the chief disorders which have to remember that the chief disorders which have afflicted our country have grown out of the violation of State equality, and that as long as this great principle has been respected, we have been blessed with harmony and and peace. Nor will it be easy to persuade the country that resolutions are sectional which command the support of a majority of the States, and are approved by the bone and body of the old Democracy, and by a vast mass of conservapinion everywhere without regard to party It has been necessary more than once in our history to pause and solemnly assert the true character of this Government. A memorable character of this Government. A memorable instance occurred in the struggle which ended the civil revolution of 1800. The Republicans of that day, like the Democrats of this, were stigmatized as disunionists, but they nobly con-ducted the contest under the Constitution, and ancted the contest finder the Constitution, and saved our political system. By a like Constitu-tional struggle it is intended now to assert and establish the equality of the States as the only basis of Union and peace. When this object, so national, so constitutional, so just, shall be ac-complished, the last cloud will disappear from compission, the last cloud will disappear from the American sky, and with common hands and hearts the States and the people will unite to develop the resources of the whole country, to bind it together with the bonds of intercourse and brotherhood, and to impel it onward in its great career. The Constitution and the equality of the States! These are symbols of everlasting Union. Let these be the rallying cries of the people.

Union. Let these be the langing these before people.

I trust that this canvass will be conducted without rancor, and that temperate arguments will take the place of hot words and passionate accusations. Above all, I venture humbly to hope that Divine Providence, to whom we owe our origin, our growth, and all our prosperity, will continue to protect our beloved country against all danger, foreign and domestic.

I am, with great respect, your friend,

Washington, July 10.—The Secretary of the Treasury has invited proposals till the 10th of September for the use by the Government of the line or lines of magnetic telegraph from the west line of Missouri to San Francisco, under a recent act of Congress. In addition to those mentioned in last night's dispatch, as addressing the Breckinridge meeting here, were Senators Brown and Davis, and Representative Florence. A letter was read from D. S. Dickinson, saying that he will support the nomination, not only because he regards the nominees as personally and politically worthy, but because their nomination emanates from the States which can give votes in the electoral college, and because the nominees are the fair representatives of the Democracy and its principles.

the lair representatives of the Democracy and its principles.

The President's speech last night was quite long—some three thousand words. He expressed his gratification at the nomination of Breck-inridge and Lane, and gave a history of the establishment of the two-thirds rule in National Conventions, which was in order to prevent the anti-Democratic States from combining with a few Democratic States to nominate a candidate agreeable to those States which would have to elect him. Neither Breck-inridge nor Douglas got a regular two-thirds nomination. Hence, any Democrat was at liberty to vote for either. The President then went, at some length, into an argument to show that each citizen of any State has the same right to protection to his property in the common Territories as any either of the other Steete La to protection to his property in the common Territories as any citizen of the other States. In conclusion, the President said this was probably
